New York Man Is Definite Suspect In State Murder

Head Of State Motor Police
Admits That Cvek Is Being Interrogated

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 6.—Col. Lynn G. Adams, head of the Pennsylvania motor police, today admitted that George Cvek, held in New York for the murder of Mrs. Catherine Papas, was a "definite suspect" in the slaying of Rachel Taylor, 17-year-old Pennsylvania State college co-ed, in March, 1940.

Adams disclosed, however, that Cvek is "definitely in the clear" on the Margaret Martin case. He explained that the accused slayer was in the Huntingdon Industrial School for Boys at the time the pretty Kingston stenographer was brutally murdered.

The police commissioner said he had not yet heard from State Police-men Hess and Jones, sent to New York to question Cvek in connection with the unsolved Pennsylvania slayings.

"They will report to me by mail," Adams said. "These things take time. We are not in any hurry. That fellow isn't going anywhere. We'll have plenty of time to question him."

"As soon as we work things out, we'll make an announcement. But we are going to check all the angles first."

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Democratic members of the senate foreign relations committee were summoned into session today to consider possibility of effecting a compromise on proposed amendments to the lease-lend bill banning both the sending of men into the European war and conveying of ships by the U. S. Navy.

Sen. George (D) Ga. chairman of the committee, announced that he would favor a compromise if a practical amendment can be devised as the senate prepared to plunge anew into debate on the Ellender amendment. Sponsored by Sen. Ellender (D) La., this amendment declares that no authority is given in the bill to send men into a foreign war. "We will consider the various amendments," George said. "I do not know that a satisfactory amendment can be devised, but if one can and we can save a day's debate I would favor it."

Declaring that the bill does not carry any authority to send men or convey ships, however, George branded the Ellender amendment and similar proposed bans by Sens. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., and Maloney (D) Conn., as meaningless.

Plan To Reorganize W.P.A. In State

New Districts Being Planned

Administrative Structure Of State W. P. A. To Be Altered It Is Announced

SOME EMPLOYEES WILL BE DROPPED

By JOHN PAGET, International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, March 6.—State W. P. A. officials today drafted final plans to reorganize the administrative structure of the federal relief program in Pennsylvania at a monthly saving of $15,000 and the loss of approximately 100 "white-collar" jobs.
Col. Philip Mathews, state administrator, said that the number of administrative districts in the state would be cut from nine to five but that the present relief load would not be reduced below the 125,000 workers authorized for March. Future quotas will be authorized by officials at Washington, he added.
Colonel Mathews said he did not believe there would be any change in the state's federal relief quota during the present fiscal year which ends June 30.
Will Begin Next Week
"The reorganizing will begin next week," Colonel Mathews said, "and we expect to have it completed by March 15. The downward trend in relief makes the change possible."
New district headquarters will be located at Scranton, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and Franklin. Offices at Reading, Greensburg, Williamsport and Altoona will be closed. Project workers in closed districts will be apportioned among the remaining offices.
"In each of these districts," stated Colonel Mathews, "will be established operating areas" where there will be small offices maintained so local authorities will have a convenient contact source to plan project sponsorship.

"We expect in the location of our areas to make W. P. A. more accessible to local people than with the nine district offices," he added.
In 1939 W. P. A. officials reduced the districts in the state from 16 to 10 and one year later cut another from the program.
Colonel Mathews said the proposed dismissal of about 100 office workers would reduce the state-wide administrative staff to approximately 1,135.

BRITAIN SAYS ELEVEN NAZI VESSELS SUNK

Official German communiqué claimed that light British naval forces had landed troops on the northern Norwegian islands after "shelling some fishing boats." "The British took some German soldiers and Norwegian fishermen prisoners," it said, "and hastily made off," the Berlin announcement added.
Report 215 Captured
Today's British communiqué said 215 German soldiers and 10 Norwegian "quislings" were captured.
The British forces also brought back to England a number of Norwegian "patriots" who were described as "anxious to fight for the cause of freedom."
The admiral said the "opportunity was taken to supply the local population with foodstuffs, soap, cigarettes, clothing and other comforts of which the Norwegians have been robbed since the German occupation."
During Tuesday's raid on the Lofoten Islands, the admiral said, "the royal navy sank nine German merchant vessels, one Norwegian merchant vessel under German control and one German armed trawler, totalling 18,000 tons."
Raid Completely Successful
"The largest ship sunk was a fully-laden German vessel of 10,000 tons."
"Two hundred and fifteen German prisoners and 10 Norwegian quislings were captured."
The raid was completely successful and met little opposition. One German naval officer and six German ratings were killed.
"The British forces suffered no damage or casualties."
Stating all objects of the attack were carried out with "conspicuous success," the communiqué added:
"The raid was planned with a three-fold object:
"First, to destroy a plant used for production of fish oil which is extremely important to Germany and is used with glycerine in making explosives.
"Second, to destroy German ships in the locality.
"Third, to take prisoners among the Germans and local quislings."
The raid developed early Tuesday morning. German shipping was dealt with by a fresh announcement that British Marines (units now fighting beside Britain against the Reich) and British troops landed.

Complaint has been made that the 15-minute parking regulation in the vicinity of the post office is being violated in a lot of instances. Cars remain parked much over the time limit designated, it is charged. Parking meters which were located on Jefferson street were removed some months ago and 15-minute parking regulations substituted.

Streets and highways are practically free of ice and snow in the entire district, Pa. News is informed. Without any heavy downfalls of snow in the near future, spring will arrive with little further handicap to traffic.

Ross Smiley, of Route 1, Ellwood road, reports that two youths, Earl Allen and Wade Kennedy, of the same locality, set traps Wednesday, to catch skunks. On examination of their traps this morning, the boys discovered that they had caught a large groundhog, and a "number four" skunk. This is rather early for a groundhog to be roaming around, and Mr. Smiley believes this is probably an indication of an early spring.

Last week it was stated in Pa. News Observers that a cardinal was heard by a newsboy and also that George D. Davidson of Ellwood City has two cardinals at his feed box all winter. Now here is a report that goes even better. J. C. Young has 20 cardinals all winter feeding at his feeding boxes. There are 10 male and 10 female cardinals. He has two feed boxes. About 150 other winter birds feed in his back yard at his home in Old Enon. A flock of quail of about 20 birds is also included.

Report Possible Italo-Greek War Mediation Hinted

(International News Service)
BELGRADE, March 6.—Possible Yugoslavian mediation in the Italo-Greek war was today reported discussed at a secret meeting among Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia and Foreign Ministers Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany and Count Ciano of Italy.
Well-informed circles in Belgrade added that a declaration outlining Yugoslavia's relations with the Axis, combined with a fresh announcement that Belgrade will maintain neutrality, may be expected shortly.
In spite of German reports that Yugoslavia soon will become the eighth Axis power, authorities here insisted that the Axis powers plan to guarantee this kingdom's neutrality without insisting that Yugoslavia join the Axis constellation.
Yugoslavia was reported in favor of mediating the Greek war, in the hope that return of peace to the Balkans would keep this country out of the struggle.

East. The twice extended Indo-China-Thailand truce had been scheduled to expire tomorrow.

Last-minute pressure by Japan was believed responsible for the new agreement. Yesterday official Japanese sources declared that, in the absence of a French reply to the Japanese mediation proposals, the situation was "rather delicate and grave."

The secretary general of the Japanese delegation to the mediation conference, Otosugu Saito, yesterday informed the French ambassador to Tokyo that further delay in a French reply would be bound to aggravate the situation.

Advocating a speedy French answer, Saito added that the Japanese government probably would not be willing to urge a third extension of the truce which halted border fighting between Thailand and Indo-China.

Will Make Wood Novelties

Last night Junior Achievement firmly established itself here when the young group formed the company—on lines of big business—to manufacture novelty articles out of wood, at a room on South street.

Six leading New Castle business firms thought enough of the undertaking to send their executives to witness the founding process—and all six, from the sidelines, will watch Ne-Ca Novelty as it grows.

Pick Officers, Offer Stock

The young business men—and there's one girl, too—chose V. Jay Johnson as their president, John Cybula, vice president, and the lone girl, Frances Stevens, as secretary-treasurer.

With their charter on hand, they chose officials and announced that stock will be issued to the general public at the par value of 25 cents a share.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Meyers, Ph.D.

NEIGHBOR'S CHILDREN MISBEHAVE

A mother writes of neighbor children over whom the parents exercise no control:

"They are allowed to do exactly as they please and they are the most destructive children. They destroy the neighbors' trees, pick and destroy their flowers, build fires on adjoining lots, get fresh with every grown up and older child and even take other children's toys. When anyone complains to their mother he gets scolded instead of the children. "I have forbidden my boy to play with them but he runs into their yard whenever he doesn't have anybody else to play with. Am I right in doing this?"

How I answered her: Let me suggest that instead of telling your child he must not play with those neighbor boys, you tell him he must not play with them except when supervised by an adult. Set aside some periods each day when you will be the supervisor. At these times welcome those boys to your home but make clear to them there are certain rules they must abide by there. When they violate these rules send them home. But try to be so skillful in directing these boys and yours in constructive play, as with blocks, crayons, and other toys, that they will eventually choose to conform in order to be allowed to play on your premises.

Praise Neighbor Boys

Be sure that your own boy also obeys the rules. Be very exacting of him. Praise these other boys when they behave themselves well. Even tell their parents of their good traits and behavior, and in the presence of the boys. You might win the older of these neighbor boys by hiring him occasionally to run an errand for you.

Also you might be able to induce some other mothers on the street to deal with these boys as I have suggested. Any time you and your neighbors spend at civilizing these roughnecks will bring good dividends to the entire community.

Of course, there is a limit to what you can endure and to the time you can spend on the re-education of the boys. Nevertheless, until you are able to win them to better conduct by indirect and persuasive means your problem will continue, and grow worse.

Avoid Unkind Remarks

When these children are off your property you won't even scold them. I hope if your child is with them and they harm him or injure property, merely have him come away from them.

See that your child never throws anything, even in self-defense, without his receiving immediate punishment. If your boy will defend himself with his bare fists, approve him heartily. Also forbid your child ever to call them ugly names, no matter what they say to him. Be careful not to suggest to your child that he is superior to these other children. Avoid speaking unkindly to your family about them and their family.

"Do you spank your child?" is the title of a magazine reprint of mine which you may have without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you read your child's letters without his inviting you to do so?

A. I hope I would have a higher sense of honor.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)
NEW YORK—Jean Gabin, French actor, explains that Frenchmen are both pro- and anti-British:

"Those who are pro-British say each night in their prayers, 'Please, God, let the gallant British win quickly.' Those who are anti-British say, 'Please, God, let the dirty British win right away.'"

MONTPELIER, Vt. — Vermont Gov. William H. Willis urges defiance of dictators:

"In these perilous times we should spare no effort to bolster the bulwarks of liberty, both at home and overseas."

SAN FRANCISCO—Carl Brisson, movie actor, just returned from Europe, describes the British attitude to the war:

"The average Englishman is facing the assault on his island with the same zest with which he enters a cricket match."

NEW YORK—Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Federal security board, denies that the rights of labor will be curtailed under the defense program:

"To curtail labor rights and abandon social insurance, public assistance and health service would be like trying to find steel for the turbines of the ship of state by prying a few plates off the bottom."

Bible Thought For Today

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God.—Romans 8:28.

Hints On Etiquette

Be careful what you do with your mouth when you have lighted your cigarette, cigar or pipe. Put it out, and then put it on an ash tray or some other non-inflammable article. An unextinguished match can do a lot of harm if thrown carelessly away.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:57. Sun rises tomorrow 6:25.

A Gary, Ind., woman told the key to her house. Someone told her to call the fire department, so she pulled the nearest fire alarm box. In short order, twenty-five firemen, two ladder-trucks, an aerial and service truck, two huge pumps, lighting unit, and the assistant fire chief answered. She got in all right, but she got something else from the firemen, which they uttered under their breath.

A true neutral is one who thinks he won't be hurt, no matter which side wins.

Virtue is slipping. Female stars say the most popular movies are the ones with hell-cat heroines.

In a fashionable girls' school in New England, the history teacher was telling the story of the settlement of the country.

"Miss Cabot," she asked, "can you tell me who came over in the Mayflower?"

"Yes, I can," came the reply. "My ancestors and a few other people."

To judge the relative righteousness of men, see that all have exactly the same trials and tribulations.

German and Italian authorities praise Lindbergh. That is enough to show what he is doing to America.

The days of Cinderella have not ended. Fletcher C. Kettle, state superintendent of old-age assistance in Illinois, received the following letter the other day: "Please cancel my grandmother's assistance award. She has just married an old sweetheart and his new oil well."

A little North Hill boy, who started in at mid-term, had just gotten back from his first day at school, and seemed to be disgusted about the thing. "What's his matter?" his mother asked. "Didn't you like school?" "I guess I didn't learn much," he replied. "I have to go back again tomorrow."

Ignorance is bliss. If the people knew what a mess our defenses are in, they wouldn't sleep tonight.

The story is going the rounds of local mail carriers, about a substitute who was hired during the Christmas rush, who spent six hours trying to find out where a man named "Fragile" lived.

Mathematically inclined persons might try and figure out the law of averages in the case of Robert Borst, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Borst stood in line, waiting for license plates for two other relatives and a set for himself. When he glanced at his number he found it was WP-11-41, the same as he had last year.

Japs Cautious About Adding More Enemies
Don't Want War With Any Of Major Powers
Attempt To Frame Russo-Jap Pact Is Cited

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 6.—That Uncle Sam should duly consider and be prepared against every possible danger to his Pacific interests which may develop from Japanese activity in the Orient is a view of long experience in the Far East, from residence there and familiarity with its psychology and politics, incline to the view that the Japs will be pretty cautious as to precipitating an out-and-out fight with the United States and Britain.

It is recognized that they doubtless think this country would be seriously handicapped by having to wage a campaign at such long range. And England is very much preoccupied in its own more immediate vicinity.

Australia is tolerably formidable, however, and its recent strengthening of the British garrison at Singapore can't have failed to impress Tokyo. Indeed, Japanese statesmen have said it did. They said it in quite a brash tone of voice, to be sure, but its brashness may have been a bluff, a game Jap statesmanship is considerably addicted to.

Waive all that, though. Isn't it extremely noticeable how hard the Mikado's ambassador at Moscow has been trying to frame up some sort of a Russo-Japanese non-aggression pact? — a pact meaning that the Soviet aggression will be sure, but its brashness from behind the minute the latter are thoroughly involved elsewhere.

Rumors Of A Pact

Rumors are current that such a pact has been concluded, but they're decidedly vague. And even if it has been concluded or is concluded presently, the best guess is that Comrade Stalin will pay no attention to it the instant he senses a favorable opportunity to effect a grab at Nippon's expense, all over the northern Asiatic mainland. Another good guess is that Tokyo knows it can't trust him, either.

It is to be remembered that Japan made a huge cleanup of Russia's Asiatic territory at the end of the Russo-Japanese war, back in President Roosevelt's day. It was a war that Japan won on the face of the returns but it wasn't so much that

PAST INDIAN GLORIES
High in the Peruvian Andes, a scientific expedition has pulled back the veil covering the face of the long-distant past and the discovery of the ruins of two ancient Inca cities. This, say members of the expedition, promises to uncover "an enormous empire of the pre-Inca races" and yield clues to the ancient Indian civilization of South America.

The ruins of these lost cities, found buried in a forest 12,000 feet above sea level, are said to rival in magnitude the great pyramids of Egypt.

For the beginnings of its own civilizations, this western hemisphere must look to Mexico and to the South American continents where cities, in culture, arts, handicrafts, architecture and mathematics, reached a high peak of development long before the pillaging conquistadores of Spain set foot in the western world.

And yet, comparatively little is known of these ancient Indian civilizations, or how or why they vanished, but thanks to continuing explorations, the Americas' past is being recaptured and made known to all.

DETERMINATION

Twenty months to look about, Probing all life's secrets out And resolving many a doubt Here below.

Twenty months and can express Beyond doubt or need to guess What he means, a happy yes Or a no.

Twenty months of life, and now Such the mind within the brow He has fully learned, somehow, Mirth and woe.

For just let him hear it said: "It is time to go to bed." Thus he answers, high of head: "No, no, no!"

Twenty months—a baby still— But aware of good and ill And possessor of a will He can show.

Twenty months—and it's play, Answering willingly "okay!" But if not at once to say, "No, no, no!"

As his grandpa—here's my prayer: On the road that he must fare, Thick beset with doubt and care, High and low.

Stout of purpose he will stay When temptation comes his way And be wise enough to say, "No, no, no!"

That Insurance Report

WASHINGTON, March 6. NO more wholesome comment has come from a Senator in some time than that the other day from Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, head of the TNEC, sometimes called the Monopoly Committee, when he made public the report submitted by two representatives of the Securities Exchange Commission who had been "investigating" the life insurance companies of the country, with the idea of "regulating" them.

VERY briefly, but emphatically, Senator O'Mahoney said that the report represented only the views of its authors. He added that it seemed to him this was no time for any kind of insurance-company regulation by anybody. That makes sense, and it is rather a pity Senator O'Mahoney was induced to soften it somewhat later. Certainly it makes more sense than the report of these two extremely ardent investigators. Certainly, too, it shows a clearer comprehension of the gigantic task upon which the nation is now engaged and for which it needs all its strength.

WITH war just around the corner, we are pouring out unstinted billions in a great effort to save Great Britain and defend ourselves. The system of government to which we are devoted is in peril. There is at least a possibility that the conflict may spread to these shores. The need for single-hearted concentration upon defense is clear. Yet in the face of all this, there are in Washington groups which see in this appalling struggle merely an opportunity to advance their own group interests and pet personal projects. They are unwilling to abandon the sort of class warfare which they have been waging for nearly eight years and for which they still have an unslaked thirst.

ONE of these groups is composed of the professional labor leaders, who, relying upon the consistency of their past White House support, are trying to use the crisis to force new concessions and retain, unmodified and unrelaxed, labor laws which concededly slacken the speed that the President, and every other Administration spokesman, tells us is the first essential. The other group includes the really radical New Dealers, avid for more "social reforms" who are now eager to push further toward industrial socialization and a general economic leveling which will make ours much more a labor government than it is now. It is in this latter group that the idea of regulating insurance companies was conceived. Its members have made no secret of their desire to find a way to supervise and control the vast funds which these great companies control. Unfortunately, these funds constitute the greatest pool of private capital in the country, and the tech among the New Dealers to get their hands on it has been undisguised and intense.

PRESUMABLY as a concession to the national emergency, this report is said to be more moderate than had been expected. And its authors disclaim any intention to attack the companies or interfere with their operation. However, it contains various unseemly and extreme recommendations and it is a rather striking coincidence that on the day of its publication the most radical of all the Administration journalistic organs launched a violent, vituperative and obviously inspired attack not only upon the companies but personally upon the men who manage and direct them. Fierce assaults were made upon various directors and in a series of savage articles a clear effort was made to shake the confidence of the 60,000,000 and more policyholders.

COMING at this time, it is difficult to imagine anything better calculated to shake the confidence of the 60,000,000 and more policyholders.

lated to create unrest and apprehension among the people or to detract from the force of the national effort to aid the British and protect ourselves. It is difficult to think of anything that more directly plays into the hands of the Communists, keen to undermine the foundations of the capitalist system and bring about economic chaos. Fortunately, Senator O'Mahoney, chairman of the committee to which the report was made, is a man of judgment and sense. He effectually took the wind out of the report by disclaiming all responsibility in a completely unsympathetic statement.

THERE seems now slight prospect that this Congress will consider seriously any of the regulatory proposals made. Some regulation there ultimately may be, but it will not be along the lines of this report and it is not likely to be rushed through in a session when the overshadowing issue of national defense and the possibility of war make it impossible to consider adequately so important a proposal. In addition to Senator O'Mahoney's attitude, the insurance companies state that at the hearing conducted by the authors of the report they answered every point made, but that these answers were conspicuously ignored in the report. An idea of its character can be gained from the recommendation that the companies be forced to find a method by which their funds will become available for "the stimulation of new enterprises and accessible to small-business men."

IF this means anything, it means that the companies should be forced to invest the funds they hold in trust for millions of widows and orphans in speculative common stocks and uncertain business of unproved worth. Aside from the fact that in many States they are prevented by law from doing that, the notion seems to be a complete negation of the basic principle upon which the integrity of these great institutions rests. It is not surprising that Senator O'Mahoney disclaims responsibility for that.

the Japs licked the Russians as that the then Tsar had a near-revolution on his hands at home and had to quit for that reason.

Both belligerents being about played out, President T. R. proffered his kind offices to wind the thing up and the treaty of Portsmouth gave the major share of the gravy to Nippon.

It stands to reason that Russia has been wanting to get it back ever since.

Among other areas that Comrade Stalin surely wants to recover is the vast Jap-dominated realm of Manchukuo. He surely must especially want to recover the Yellow Sea outlet of Port Arthur, right in Japan's maritime frontyard—as valuable to the Japs as Sandy Hook is to the United States. True, he has Vladivostok as a Russian window on the Pacific, but Vladivostok harbor is frozen up a good part of the year. Port Arthur is ice-free.

Russ Not Too Strong

Now, the Russians don't seem to be militarily very strong. Individually they may be good fighters, but evidently there's something the matter with their organization. They lost the Russo-Japanese war. Even little Finland stood them off for quite a while. The indications are that they're afraid of Germany on their western front and in the Balkans, but Germany, though allied with Japan, couldn't do much to help the Japs in Asia. Geography speaks for itself. And presumably the Muscovites wouldn't care to tackle the Japs, either, in an exclusive fight between those two countries.

But let the Japs have the United States and the Australians on their hands, plus their war with China! It would be a chance mightily hard for Comrade Stalin to resist.

From all accounts, Japan's in a middling bad shape already. She hasn't defeated the Chinese and it appears that the Nipponese nation is economically completely shot full of holes, regardless of its military rating. This is a mean time for the Nipponese to undertake another big contract, let alone several of them—China still scrapping; then the United States, Australia and Russia, quite likely.

The Japs, be it said, haven't a reputation for being as effective as they look. They're great imitators. They can build an ocean liner or a warship that answers all specifications, simply envisaged by the naked eye, but, in practice, there usually is difficulty in persuading these craft to float right side up and such things. They're very "crude to machinery," as I've heard it expressed.

In short, expert students of the empire don't rate them 100 per cent.

Ethiopia Sees Independence

Once Conquered Country In Open Revolt Against Fascist Italy

AWAITED MOMENT HAS NOW ARRIVED

By THEODORE DOGANY
International News Service Special Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ETHIOPIA, March 6.—Once-conquered Ethiopia is now in flaming revolt against Fascist Italy and independence again is in sight, the crown prince of Ethiopia told this correspondent in an exclusive interview today.

Simply attired in an officer's khaki uniform, Crown Prince Asfao Usser, heir to the peacock throne of Emperor Haile Selassie, received me in his tent at a military encampment in the shadow of Ethiopia's rugged mountains.

"The news which we receive from the general headquarters of my imperial father is most satisfactory," he said.

"His headquarters are somewhere in the interior at a spot whose location must be kept secret.

"At the present moment, the entire Abyssinian nation is fighting by the side of its emperor with increasing strength and firmness. It has decided to regain its liberty.

"Throughout the black years of Italian occupation, our people have constantly awaited this moment and the opportune time for a general revolt. For years, able-bodied men have taken refuge in the high mountains, preserving a sort of independence and forming themselves into guerrilla bands.

"Constantly and in a most satisfactory manner they have fought the Italian occupational forces.

"The invaders, unable to punish these men, revenged themselves upon the civilian population, committing the most atrocious crimes against women and children.

"The Italian occupation has been nothing but a series of crimes against our people.

"To give an example: After the attempt on Graziani (Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Italian commander in Africa, was shot at in Addis Ababa some time ago), Italian soldiers spread through the town, pouring petrol on native huts and setting them ablaze. The inhabitants, trapped inside, were burned to death.

"But the heavier and harder that Italian rule became, the greater became the desire of my people to regain their independence. The manner in which the entire nation replied to the Negus' appeal is most brilliant proof of this.

"With the aid of Great Britain the entire people of Ethiopia have now joined their emperor. Their love for him is so great that at this moment I have under my orders volunteers 70 years old!

"But they are so strong and so well-trained they can attack and capture entire patrols of enemy soldiers."

As I bade the crown prince farewell and turned from his tent, he smiled and said:

"I shall hope to see you in Addis Ababa soon."

Men In Service Have Protection

Soldiers And Sailors Civil Relief Act Protects Civil Rights Of Men

LOCAL BOARD GIVES OUTLINE

Transition from civilian to military life, and in some cases from a comparatively high salary in private employment to army pay under the Selective Service law, is cushioned for the draftee to some extent by the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act of 1940. It is pointed out by A. Louis Conn, secretary of local board No. 1 for New Castle.

This act was passed by congress as a companion measure to the draft act, its purpose being to defer some civil obligations and to avoid some of the embarrassment and financial loss which a selectee might otherwise suffer as the result of a drastic lowering of his accustomed income.

Under the relief act, the government will pay premiums on draftees life insurance policies not exceeding $5,000 in value, provided the policies were taken out prior to Oct. 17, 1940, or not less than 30 days prior to the man's induction. Payment of taxes due the government, including income taxes, may be deferred during the service period.

If a man has dependents, his induction into the service is deferred automatically. However, if at any time after a man's induction his family finds itself unable to meet rent payments, they cannot be evicted from any dwelling renting for less than $80 a month by court order.

If a man has given a mortgage on real estate prior to his induction, the courts may order the holder of the mortgage to await payment of interest until the conscript's discharge from service.

If a man bought an auto prior to Oct. 17, 1940, and has paid more than half the purchase price, the car cannot be repossessed by the finance company for failure to meet monthly payments during his service period.

By the terms of the relief act, no civil obligations of draftees are to be deferred unless a man's induction into the service has materially affected his ability to pay, and no debts or obligations are to be canceled outright.

When a man is discharged after his year's training, he is given nine months to pay back income taxes. He must repay the government for advancing money to cover his life insurance premiums within one year. Most other obligations must be taken up within a year.

No draftee need pay for legal advice in connection with any postponement of his obligations under the relief act. Legal advisors of local draft boards are authorized under draft regulations to render such advice without charge.

Creditors in general are inclined to be more lenient with draftees than actually required by law. Many courts have adopted a standing rule that no judgments to force payment of civil obligations will be entered unless the plaintiff files an affidavit that the defendant is not serving in the armed forces of the United States as a draftee, soldier or sailor. When defendants are serving in the military or naval forces, judgments are deferred.

Army Training Progresses For Local Boys At Shelby

By JOHN BALL
(Special Correspondent)

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., March 3.—Herewith is the first in a series of articles of Military Customs and Courtesies "New Regulations Relating to General Orders" is the subject heading on the everyday rules of the U. S. army that every soldier is required to know. In some cases it is a regimental order that no man is eligible for a pass from the reservation unless he can relate the following regulations from memory. The keenness of a man under arms is therefore mentally as well as physical and outward appearances.

Here at this southern military camp, the majority of New Castle boys in the 2nd Battalion Field Artillery, 190th Field Artillery arrived here ready and prepared with this education. Two weeks of preliminary army training at the Joseph V. Cunningham Army made this possible.

Every good soldier knows:

1. To take charge of this post and all government property in view.
2. To walk my post in a military manner, keeping always on the alert and observing everything that takes place within sight or hearing.
3. To report all violations of orders I am instructed to enforce.
4. To repeat all calls from posts more distant from the guardhouse than my own.
5. To quit my post only when properly relieved.
6. To receive, obey, and pass on to the sentinel who relieves me all orders from the commanding officer, officer of the day, and officers and non commissioned officers of the guard only.
7. To talk to no one except in the line of duty, while on guard.
8. To give the alarm in case of fire or disorder.
9. To call the corporal of the guard in any case not covered by instructions.
10. To salute all officers and all colors and standards not cased.
11. To be especially watchful at night and, during the time for challenging, to challenge all persons on or near my post and to allow no one to pass without proper authority.

These are formalities of the army and must be observed. But to add an informal touch, we will say again that the weather is excellent; everybody is happy and well at Camp Shelby.

REPORT RUSSIA MASSING TROOPS NEAR RUMANIA

hension in Rumania, whose German-controlled oil fields already are slated as a possible target for British bombers.

(Editor's note: The London Daily Sketch reported from Belgrade that Rumanian Premier Ion Antonescu's conference with Reich Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering at Vienna yesterday was prompted by Soviet demands for Rumanian Black Sea bases.

(This dispatch quoted high diplomatic quarters as stating that Antonescu rushed to Vienna because Russia, "in a demand of an ultimate nature," insisted that Rumania cede the bases to the Soviet Union immediately.

Reports Vary

(This version was at variance with reports from Berlin, which said Goering and Antonescu discussed economic and military questions, including "protection" of Rumania and her oil fields from possible British attacks.)

(At Berlin, informed German quarters declared today there was "no foundation" for reports that Russia had demanded Rumanian Black sea bases and that this was the cause of Antonescu's conference with Goering.)

German troops were still reported concentrating in Bulgaria, and their number there was estimated at 600,000 or more.

(A Reuters (British) dispatch from Istanbul said German infantrymen were stationed less than 15 miles from Svilengrad, a small Bulgarian town on the Turkish border.)

Huge Nazi Forces

"Solid miles" of German mechanized troops and war supplies swept southward through Bulgaria while authoritative quarters predicted a German "peace or perish" ultimatum to Greece within nine or ten days.

But all indications from Athens were that Greece will not yield to Axis pressure and will keep on fighting beside Britain, even if the German juggernaut on the Bulgarian-Greek border drives against the strategic Hellenic port of Salonika.

Likewise there was no indication that the massed German forces on the Bulgarian-Turkish border have succeeded in intimidating the Turks.

Turkey's rejection of the Nazi non-aggression offer, reports from Ankara said, was based ostensibly on the contention that such a pact was not necessary. Turkey pointed out that she and Germany are not neighbors.

The British diplomatic campaign in Yugoslavia was spurred by reports that the Belgrade government is the next slated for inclusion in the Axis-Japanese military pact.

Wife Got Fat No Longer Attractive LOST HUSBAND'S LOVE

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper in connection with a divorce trial that had attracted wide attention. She was a beautiful woman, one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do. If you are fat, how would you like to lose some of it and at the same time gain in physical charm and attractiveness—more energy—greater activity?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts (a famous English formula) in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for thirty days. Out pastries and fatty meats and go light on white bread, potatoes, butter and cream. Then watch yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts will last you for 4 weeks and costs but little. Ask Ecker's Drug Store or any druggist for a bottle of Kruschen, plain or new effervescent—sparkling—pleasant—and start today to lose fat. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back.

MAY SEEK COMPROMISE ON PROPOSED CHANGES IN LEASE-LEND BILL

compromise, but declared that he would not accept "just some sugar-coated words."

"There is a chance to pass my amendment," he said. "If we had voted yesterday it would have carried. It is a declaration of Congress against participating in these foreign wars unless we are attacked."

George, however, said "we have the votes to beat the Ellender amendment."

Poll Indication

As amendments were considered, a poll showed a Democratic majority of 57 votes for final enactment of the measure. Majority Leader Barkley voiced satisfaction over progress and again expressed hope that the bill can be passed by Saturday night, but leading foes said that there is no chance of a final vote before next week.

Compromise talk developed meanwhile despite the fact that both the White House and state department sent word to senate leaders to oppose the Ellender-O'Mahoney and Maloney amendments.

The amendment of Sen. Maloney (D., Conn.), prohibiting American ships, naval as well as merchant, from entering combat zones, gained favor.

"This amendment would be in keeping with the policy of the state department which insists upon a free hand in the Pacific," Maloney said. "It would definitely ban sending men to Europe but would not hamper the administration foreign policy in the Pacific, except as combat zones are created."

Further concessions were in prospect following the action of senate leaders yesterday in accepting modifying amendments. Three combined amendments, including the house limitation of $1,300,000,000 on transfer of existing army and navy defense articles a requirement that value be fixed by department heads and the Byrd amendment prohibiting the president from using new appropriations for lease-lend purposes, were regarded by some members as important.

Dues Picketing Drive Halts Work At Midland Plant

(International News Service)

MIDLAND, Pa., March 6.—A dues picketing drive by C.I.O.-S.W.O.C. members today halted work for a second time at a bar mill at the Crucible Steel company plant at Midland.

The mill was closed down when insufficient men reported on the morning shift, company officials said. A second mill shut down during picketing Tuesday, but continuing operations last yesterday. Approximately 300 workers are involved in the bar mill's three shifts. Production in other departments has been partially curtailed, the management said.

John Giles, president of the S. W. O. C. Local 1212, said the drive would continue until about 25 remaining nonunion members are enrolled and paying dues. He said there was a possibility the picketing will end with the mid-afternoon shift. The plant is engaged in making shell steel on U. S. and British government orders.

GUTZON BORGLUM TAKEN BY DEATH

most constantly since Sunday. A son, Lincoln, also was with his father here.

Borglum's greatest work was the huge Mt. Rushmore Memorial in which he carved the likenesses of Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt on the facade of a towering mountain in the Black Hills of South Dakota. The great project had not been completed when death overtook Borglum, however.

Borglum's creations won him world-wide fame. In addition to the huge Mt. Rushmore edifice, his more notable works were the equestrian statues of Gen. Philip Sheridan in Washington, D. C., and in Chicago; the marble head of Abraham Lincoln which graces the rotunda of the capitol building in Washington; wars of America, a huge work consisting of 42 figures in bronze, which is in military park, Newark, N. J., and the North Carolina memorial on the battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa.

Abroad, Borglum fashioned the memorial to Woodrow Wilson at Posen, Poland, and the Thomas Paine memorial in Paris, among others.

The sculptor was born in Idaho. He was christened John Gutzon De La Bothe Borglum. Borglum received his early education in the public schools of Fremont and Omaha, Neb. Later he studied art in San Francisco and then attended the Julian Academy and the Ecole Des Beaux Arts in Paris.

Princeton university honored him with an M. A. degree, and he received other honorary degrees from Oglethorpe and Dakota Wesleyan universities.

His death came at a time when Borglum was working on the design for a new memorial to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the city of New York.

Borglum was 57 years old when he died. He had been suffering from a long illness.

His family is mourning his death.

He is survived by his wife and children.

Funeral services will be held at a later date.

He was a member of the American Sculptors Guild.

His work will be remembered for many years.

With regard to the latter, Hull has requested the Italian ambassador to keep the state department informed of any movements outside of Washington of the military and naval personnel attached to the Italian embassy.

To Stay In Own Areas

With regard to the consular agents throughout the country, Hull notified the Italian ambassador that this government requests that "all officials of his government within the territory of the United States will confine their movements to those areas in which they exercise the recognized duties of their respective offices."

In a note sent to the Italian ambassador last night, the state department said:

"The secretary of state presents his compliments to his excellency the Royal Italian Ambassador and has the honor to refer to his old communication of February 12, 1941 with the respect to the Italian government's request that the consulates now established at Palermo and Naples should be moved to a place as far north as Rome or farther north and to a place which was not on the seacoast."

"Instructions to these consular agents will be issued to the effect that they are to remain in their present locations."

The Italian ambassador is informed that the American ambassador in Rome has been requested to convey orally to the appropriate Italian authorities the desire of the U. S. government that these offices should be closed and that the Italian personnel be withdrawn from these places.

"Should they remain within the jurisdiction of the United States, the department of state should be kept fully informed of their place of residence."

Troops Landed In Britain Couldn't Retain Footing

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 6.—Germany can land troops in England, it was proved by actual test in a gigantic sham battle—but they cannot maintain their footing there.

War Minister Capt. David Margesson revealed results of the sham battle for the first time in the House of Commons today, declaring that the sham fight lasted a week, and was on a scale "far heavier than anything the Germans actually are likely to make."

The "enemy" said the war minister, "made many landings by sea and air," but all the home forces came through "with the greatest credit."

after a cold then what

DOCTORS stress remaining in bed until the body temperature is normal. Sound advice.

You know how weak you feel after a cold. Colds play havoc in weakening the body. The story is well told in the blood picture. It is important to build back body strength right away to carry the load of work, worries, and loss of sleep. A weakened body may be more susceptible to relapse or long drawn out recovery.

So reason sensibly and take the choice of millions by immediately starting on a course of S.S.S. Tonic—taken three times a day immediately before meals. In the absence of a focal infection or organic disease, you should note improvement in the way you feel and look within the first 10 days. The confidence of millions over many years is the best testimonial of this product.

An experience with S.S.S. Tonic will cause you to say to your friends, S.S.S. made me "feel and look like myself again."

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 6.—The resignation of Richard P. Brown, of Philadelphia, as secretary of commerce, may result in a legislative investigation of the new executive department, which was formed in 1939 at the direct request of Governor James. Brown was its first and to date only head and was believed to have been the personal selection of Governor James at the time he was chosen.

Brown informed the governor that his resignation was due to a "fundamental difference of opinion" (which has arisen) regarding the policy the department should pursue. This difference was understood to revolve around the desire of the governor to have the state's tourist advertising given to an advertising agency other than the one now holding it. Brown objected to this and resigned rather than carry out the governor's wishes.

As a result, a demand is expected to be made in the house by Democratic legislators for an investigation. Democrats have always contended there was no need for a commerce department. Their earlier objection will be given added strength by the dispute between the governor and his commerce secretary.

The announcement of the creation of a state home guard came as a surprise to Capitol Hill. Governor James had previously stated that he saw "no need" for a reserve defense force. In this, he said, Major General Edward Martin, state adjutant general, agreed. The governor changed his mind, however, and the need for haste evidently became so great that he did not even wait for passage of a bill empowering him to create a home guard.

Instead the governor acted under the authority vested in him under a 1917 measure. There is considerable puzzlement in Capitol Hill circles as to why the new measure is needed as it makes only minor changes in the 1917 law, which was amended in 1937. Some time ago General Martin said laws now on the statute books were amply sufficient.

Recalls Miniature Park Near Bridge Across Shenango

Work Of Old-Time Watchman At Erie Railroad Is Recalled By Wm. Aubel

William Aubel, of 20 Smithfield street, who came to this city, forty-two years ago, wonders who can remember the miniature "park" that was constructed by Jimmie Burns, who was the railroad gatekeeper or watchman, on West Washington street, over thirty years ago.

The "park" was situated on the east bank of the Shenango river, at the bridge, near the watchman's "shanty". The miniature took on the appearance of a fort; it had gravel paths leading down to the water's edge, there were walls of cobble stones, carefully laid up, and decorated with white wash. Then there was above this, flower beds, carefully kept throughout the season. A spring bubbled up near the wall, and flowed under the walk, to the river.

Jimmie (as everybody called him) often had to rebuild his "park" in the spring, as the frost and high water of the winter would damage his work. Each spring would find him busy fixing up, and planting new flowers at the location.

Mr. Aubel states that he often took his children down to, and through this wonderful little park, and drank from the spring there.

(International News Service) WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 6.—Producer Sam Harris, 69, was reported in a "rather poor" condition today following an emergency appendectomy.

Although the operation was described as a success, and the recovery satisfactory, physicians said Harris' general condition was unsatisfactory.

Mrs. Harris remained in an adjoining room in the hospital. Al Johnson, singing star, and one of the producer's closest friends, also remained close to the bedside.

Wheat Farmers To Have Session

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, March 6.—Wheat farmers were invited today by James E. Walker, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, to attend a discussion in Harrisburg tomorrow of plans for conducting a national marketing quota among wheat growers May 31.

R. M. Evans, administrator for the agricultural adjustment administration, will discuss the present wheat situation, the estimated supply of which will make it mandatory for Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to proclaim a marketing quota for the 1941-42 year, unless opposed by more than one-third of the wheat farmers who participate in the referendum.

It is expected the marketing quota will be proclaimed in May since the supply of wheat for the next marketing year will exceed domestic consumption and exports by more than 35 per cent.

The Golden Text

Parable of the vineyard

"Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake."

—Matt. 5:11.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 9 is Luke 20:9-21, 38, the Golden Text being Matt. 5:11. "Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake.")

The lesson today begins with the telling of the parable of the wicked husbandmen and the vineyard. A certain man, said Jesus, planted a vineyard and let it out to husbandmen, who presumably were to have a share in the crops for working it. The man then went into another country and was gone for a long time.

When he returned he sent his servant to receive his share of the fruit, but the husbandmen beat the man and threw him out of the vineyard. The owner sent another servant, who was also mistreated, and a third who was wounded and cast out. Then the man sent his son, thinking these wicked husbandmen would respect him and give him the fruit. The men, however, killed the young man, thinking that, as he was his father's heir, if he was out of the way they would inherit the vineyard.

"What therefore will the lord of the vineyard do unto them?" Jesus asked, and answered that he would undoubtedly destroy the husbandmen and take the vineyard and give it to others to work. The chief priests and scribes grew angry when they heard this parable, as they felt it was directed against them, especially as Jesus further said that it was written that the stone that the builders rejected had become the head of the corner; and that if someone fell upon that stone he would be broken, but if the stone fell on him, it would "grind him to powder."

Chief Priests Send Spies. Jesus was the stone that would crush these unbelievers who were always careful to observe the letter of the law, but who could not see—or would not admit—that Jesus was the Messiah for whom they had been looking, and were determined to destroy Him. After this these men sent spies to listen to Jesus and report to them so that if He said anything that could possibly be construed as treasonable to the state, they might have an excuse to arrest Him. They thought themselves very clever when they asked Jesus about the payment of what the Jews thought was an unjust tax which they resented bitterly.

"It is lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar or no?" they asked. They thought if He said it was lawful, the people who hung on His words would be angry; and if He said it was not lawful, they could accuse Him before the Roman tribunal. But these spies were no match for Our Lord. "Shew me a penny. Whose image and superscription hath it?" He asked. "Caesar's," they answered. Then, said Jesus, "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which be Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's."

His enemies were rendered speechless, but they tried once more to trap Him. Certain of the Sadducees, who did not believe in resurrection, asked Him a ridiculous question about a family of seven brothers. The first one married and had no children, and he died. The law said that in such a case the next older brother should marry the woman and have children for his brother. One by one the brothers married the same woman and died, and last of all the woman died, still leaving no children. In the resurrection, therefore, whose wife would the woman be?

Jesus' answer was that it is only in this world that there is marriage and giving in marriage. At the resurrection all are "equal unto the angels." Certain of the scribes were impressed with this answer and said, "Master, Thou hast well said." And St. Luke says, "After that they durst not ask Him any questions at all."

In the temple in Jesus' time were 12 chests to receive offerings for the work of the temple. One day Jesus watched those coming and dropping in their offerings. Many rich men came and evidently dropped in their money with a proud air for all to see. But a woman came, with two "mites," the smallest copper or bronze coin in use, and dropped them into the chest. It was probably all she had and represented a great sacrifice on her part.

"Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all," Jesus said. It was not the amount of the offering that counted in His eyes, but the way in which it was offered. "She of her penury hath cast in all the living that she had," He said.

The Lord then warned His disciples of the terrible things that were to come, of the destruction of the temple and leveling of their holy city, of their persecution and martyrdom, and of wars, pestilences and great upheavals of nature, but told them not to be afraid. Many should come claiming to be the Christ, but they were not to be deceived by such impostors.

In the daytime He taught in the temple, but at night He abode in the Mount of Olives. "And all the people came early in the morning to Him in the temple, for to hear him."

poration of all war supplies and other important defense articles to foreign countries. Approximately 500 classifications of articles, representing more than one third of this country's exports, have been made subject to this control.

Informed quarters said cotton and food commodities, such as wheat and corn, may be added to the control system later if such a move is considered essential for American defense purposes or to help the British.

American government approval must be obtained for the exportation of any articles which have been placed on the export control list. Such approval is not being granted for the exportation of anything to Germany or Italy, or to the Nazi-controlled territories. Shipment of important supplies to Russia and Japan is being steadily restricted.

Lenient With Canada-Britain

On the other hand, Canada, Great Britain and northern Ireland have been granted blanket licenses to obtain war materials and other supplies in this country.

"We are conforming to national policy," an export control office spokesman said. "When we issue a license, we know where the material is going, and we know it won't go any further."

In addition to the restrictions on direct shipments to Germany and Italy, the government also is seeking to prevent so-called triangular trade with those two Axis powers. Thus, it has informed Soviet Russia that it will not permit American goods to be used to replenish Soviet supplies shipped to Germany.

In order to prevent German agents from purchasing vital supplies in Latin America for transshipment to Germany via Russia, this government is buying up important supplies in those countries, such as mercury in Mexico and tungsten in Bolivia.

By freezing the funds of the Nazi-conquered nations of Europe, the American government is preventing those countries from ever obtaining food supplies in the United States.

Never before in the history of this country has the American government wielded such economic power against nations with whom the United States was not at war.

MARMALADE

OR MUNITIONS

SOMEWHERE, right now, a telephone bell is ringing. It may be a housewife calling the corner store to order a jar of marmalade.

Or it may be a call from Washington to a manufacturer, concerning a huge order for munitions.

Telephone men and women don't need to know what the call concerns. They know that every call is important to someone. And so they aim to complete every call efficiently, swiftly, surely.

Good telephone service is more important today than ever before.

DETERMINE CAUSE OF BLAST IN MINE

(International News Service)

WELCH, W. Va., March 6.—A coroner's jury which deliberated only 40 minutes on the testimony presented during an inquest into the Carswell mine disaster had decided today that the explosion which killed five miners and injured 14 others was caused by gas and dust.

The jury heard seven of the miners who were burned in the blast testify, and also listened to a 15-page report from a state mines inspector sharply criticizing mining practices of the Koppers Coal Company.

Chicago Woman Held Captive In Russia 18 Months

Mrs. Olga Kochanski Taken
Prisoner When Poland
Was Invaded

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 6.—Her hands calloused and hard from seven months of hard work in the fields of northwestern Siberia, Mrs. Olga Kochanski was back in her native
Chicago today with a harrowing tale of 18 months she spent as a virtual prisoner in Russia following the Russian-German invasion of Poland.

Mrs. Kochanski went to Warsaw
25 years ago and married her violin teacher, Prof. Wladaw Kochan-ski, who became vice rector of the Warsaw Conservatory of Music, and died just before Poland fell in September of 1939.

Mrs. Kochanski said she was seized by Russian soldiers at Kowel, Poland, where she was resting at the home of a friend. Unable to prove her American citizenship, she was sent to Siberia in a box car with 30 other refugees, and forced to work in the fields although the temperature sometimes dropped to as low as 56 degrees below zero.

"We lived in a log hut," she said,
"and seldom had enough clothing or bedding. Our food was mainly bread and barley flour. There were about 650 refugees in our camp,
some of them Poles of high rank,
including architects, doctors, engineers, with their wives and children."

Mrs. Kochanski came back to America convinced the European dictatorships cannot endure.

"The people will rise up when the time comes," she said. "There is fine leadership among these people, and when the signal is given, they will fight."

County Principals Discuss Activities

County Association Meets In Superintendent Syling's
Office Wednesday
Night

Lawrence county school principals discussed a number of activities at the monthly meeting of the county association in the office of county superintendent John C. Syling,
Wednesday evening, with President
Clarence Marshall, of Enon Valley presiding.

Plans for the county music and forensic contest on March were discussed. As has previously announced this will take place in New Wilmington under the auspices of Westminster college.

May 24 was named as the date for the annual county school outing at Idora Park, Youngstown.

Plans were completed for a softball league, which will comprise eight teams, Mt. Jackson, Bessemer, East Brook, New Wilmington,
Plaingrove, Shenango, Union and Wampum. Games will start at 4:15 o'clock.

The April meeting will be in the form of a dinner party, with S. G.
McCullough, supervising principal of the Mt. Jackson schools in charge of the arrangements. A committee was named to formulate a course of study for the eighth grade.

John Turner, principal of the Harlansburg schools had charge of the program, and introduced Milton
Pattison, who reviewed the book,
"Letters of a Hardboiled Father to His Half-Baked Son."

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IT'S TIME FOR PARENTS TO BE ON GUARD AGAINST MEASLES

For the next few weeks, watch for outcroppings of measles in your community, and try to keep your children from coming in contact with it if you can. Particularly if your child is under four years of age; for it is among children two to four years that measles has its highest mortality rate. Late winter and early spring is the "measles season".

Measles is distinctly a disease of childhood. But it is unwise to adopt the attitude, as some do, that children "have to have" measles anyway, so the sooner they have it and get over with it the better. This isn't true; it isn't inevitable that your child will get the measles. But, more important, the later he gets measles the better. The older he is the better he will stand the infection.

Measles is another of the childhood diseases that Dianne Quintuplets have never contracted. Every spring, I have kept my fingers crossed, though, because it is so infectious that it might invade our nursery at any time in spite of all our precautions.

Measles are dangerous not so much because of the effect of the disease itself, but because of the complications that so often follow in its wake. Bronchitis is the most frequent complication. When a small child or a baby gets measles, bronchitis is almost invariably its companion. Now and then this bronchitis leads to pneumonia.

It takes from 10 to 14 days after exposure to it for measles to develop in a child. The first symptom is usually what may seem to be an ordinary head cold—a slight fever, a persistently running nose and perhaps a slight cough.

In a couple of days the fever drops. If your doctor examines him at this stage, he will find the first definite symptoms: a peculiar rash on the inside of the cheeks and on the soft palate. This consists of a few bluish reddened areas about the size of peas.

These spots always mean that the patient has measles for I have never seen them in any other disease. About two days after these spots have been noticed, the first signs of the skin rash appear. First it comes on the sides of the face, then on the chin. Later it will likely spread down onto the chest.

At first this rash consists of many small, round slightly raised areas varying in color from pink to bright red. In a few days the rash changes color; the round spots become irregular blotches of pink, slightly raised tissue. After it has spread to the chest from the face and neck, it will keep on spreading until it covers the whole body.

This spreading of the rash is accompanied by a mark rise in temperature and the child becomes irritable. The eyes become reddened and he cannot look at light.

This is the acute stage of the disease. It usually lasts three or four days, then the temperature begins to fall. The youngster who makes a rapid recovery from the disease isn't unusual.

Tavern Owners Plead Not Guilty To Liquor Charge

MERCER, March 6.—Pleading not guilty to charges of selling intoxicants to minors, Charles and Harry Guarnieri, proprietors of the Lone Pine Inn, No. 2 Mine, were ordered held for court under $500 bail each, at a hearing before Justice Thomas McClain, Mercer. Both were released from the county jail after posting bonds.

The Guarnieris were arrested last Friday night after a group of liquor control board enforcement officers raided the inn and found 16 minors drinking intoxicants which the officers said were purchased at the place.

REV. F. HOLLINSHEAD SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Rev. Frank Hollinshead, pastor of the First Baptist church, who sustained a fractured rib in a fall on the ice a week ago Saturday, is improving nicely at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Kelly, 319 Park avenue, where he is confined.

While Rev. Hollinshead continues to show daily improvement, it will be necessary that he remain in the house for several days, it is stated.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The parasol ants in the Bronx Zoo go on a hunger strike. They had been fed fresh hot-house roses. The price went up and Dr. Raymond L. Dittmars, curator of reptiles and insects, began feeding them fallen petals from florists' shops. There were riots and disorder, incipient cannibalism and a final refusal to so much as nibble the state rose petals. Dr. Dittmars rushed up a colony of strike-breaking ants by plane from Trinidad. They are expected to make the pampered rose-petal aesthetes eat anything they get—and like it. That's an eye-opener in the news.

If it had a Broadway angle you'd suspect the hand of the press-agent. But anything that clears through Dr. Dittmars' office is grade A spot-news and as true as Scripture. So we will have in miniature at the zoo an epitome of the planetary struggle of both ants and men. And it just happens that these parasol ants are of the genus Messor which Solomon indicated as our paragon of wisdom. The strike-breakers are also parasol ants, much given to ingenious free enterprise in their native state, with no epicures among them.

We sluggards may learn much if we "go to the ant" and study their epitome of social forces dramatically staged in miniature. The best modern authority on parasol ants—on all ants, for that matter—is Dr. Caryl P. Haskins, research associate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Howard University, and research professor at Union college.

His book, "Of Ants and Men," published in the summer of 1939, is an amazing revelation of the parallel between the organizations of ant society and human society and of the ever-continuing problem of "freedom versus organization" which neither ants nor humans have yet solved.

As to our newly arrived strike-breaking parasol ants, Dr. Haskins describes them, in their South American habitat, as follows: "It is an experience never to be forgotten when, returning tired and hungry through the misty jungle at eventide, one first stumbles across the foraging columns of the parasol ants, their course marked by a line of waving banners, vivid green against the rain-soaked earth, as they return laden homeward. Once within the nest their leaves are subjected to a long chewing process, and finally, much macerated, and quite unrecognizable, they are inserted into the fungus gardens. "The physical specialization among the workers is mirrored in the marked division of labor in these highest of agricultural ants. The queen is constantly attended by a suitable guard, and cared for, and her activities are restricted entirely to egg-laying. She is constantly fed by her daughters, and takes no thought for the brood, or for the nest. "The largest soldiers and workers habitually forage and cut and bring in leaves for the fungi. The size of the pieces which they can transport varies to some extent with the size of the porter, but their methods are the same. The smallest workers, however, rarely leave the nest, and never cut leaves, which, indeed, they are physically incapable of doing. Instead, they devote themselves assiduously to a constant weeding of the fungus gardens.

"There exists a great variety of these ants, representing all grades of civilization, from small, timid colonies, clandestinely cultivating a small fungus garden, and nourishing it with bits of decaying wood, and other rubbish gathered at random, to the huge and highly specialized true fungus-growers.

"These impressive insects sometimes have a house as large as a cottage, housing a colony consisting of many thousands of individuals. The queens and males are relatively large. The members of the sterile caste range all the way from the soldiers, which are nearly as large as the queen, down to tiny minims, which are not more than a hundredth as large as she."

Dr. Haskins then describes their cultivation of a mushroom group of fungi and, "under this cultivation they are induced to develop knobs at their tips which have been called 'kohlrahi heads' because of their resemblance to the garden vegetable."

When they transplanted this hard-working, resourceful outfit to the big city and fed them on hot-house roses, it might have been expected that they would stray from the ways of the founding fathers. It will be interesting to see if the old-timers from back home will smack down the agitators and make them go to work again and eat their spinach and never yell for roses.

We know more about ants than we do of any of the larger creatures because their whole planetary life story may be read in the complete anthology of their race. Dr. Haskins, piecing the tale together, has found both democratic and totalitarian ant societies. He has found a peaceful ant society, pursuing free enterprise for centuries, with a minimum of organization and standardization and he has seen that society overwhelmed by totalitarian invaders, in which all the energies of the state have gone into war and plunder. And then he has seen this old-world totalitarian outfit knocked over by some self-starting, free-swinging, hell-for-leather red-necks from the Argentine.

There is imperialism among ants, exploiting tributary peoples. There are vast and varied systems of slavery, and there is an eternal struggle for peace and freedom. There are astounding variations and adaptations in social structure, disquietingly suggestive of "man against himself" as he tries to build a civilization in which all can live and work. Solomon, indeed, turned our attention to the only social laboratory which we may examine.

GREEKS GUARD ART TREASURES

Although the total resources of Greece are being thrown into her life and death struggle with Italy, the work of protecting her priceless treasure of antiquities has not been neglected, despite frequent bombings and lack of able-bodied manpower, according to a letter recently received by Mrs. Hamlin Hunt, prominent New York benefactor of archaeological research, from Prof. Spyridon Marinatos, of the University of Athens.

Prof. Marinatos' letter, which revealed that he was in charge of the civilian volunteers engaged in preservation tasks, bitterly denounced the enemy's spirit of aggression and eloquently pleaded for American moral and financial support. A copy of it, forwarded to Speer Marousis, head of the New Castle Greek War Relief Fund drive, reads in part:

"For the moment we work in Athens, attempting to protect our and your dear antiquities. We have not suffered any damage here yet, but it is a fight which may yet be fought with our nails and our teeth. At least this is our determination."

Attends Oberlin Alumni Banquet

Dr. Wilbur E. Flannery, of 113 East Moody avenue, has departed for the Graduate School of Theology, at Oberlin, O., where he will attend the alumni faculty student banquet event, Thursday evening, March 6, at 6 o'clock.

The banquet is an annual affair and on this occasion Dr. Flannery will be a guest speaker, choosing as his topic, "The Relationship Between the Ministry and the Medical Profession." Dr. T. W. Graham, dean of the School of Theology, will be the principal speaker.

Dr. Flannery will be accompanied by Mrs. Flannery and will return home on Friday.

STUDENT INJURED

Delores Donley, aged 12, of R. F. D. No. 2, a student at Union high school, was treated for injuries to her right elbow, sustained when she fell while playing in the gymnasium of the school. She was able to leave the Jameson Memorial hospital, where she was taken for treatment after receiving medical attention.

Ireland is the only country in which statistics show men have a longer span of life than women.

Friends To Honor Kirkbrides Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock, friends of Dr. and Mrs. Sherman A. Kirkbride, New Wilmington, will gather in the Neshannock Presbyterian church of New Wilmington at which time the couple will be presented with a book compiled by friends in remembrance of their golden wedding anniversary.

An interesting program has been arranged, with Rev. Stewart Harro of West Middlesex as speaker, after which refreshments will be served by the Temple Builders, an organization of the church.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Getting Ready To
Let Out City Lots
Here For GardensGarden Space Available In District On 108 City-
Owned Plots

Within the next month, 100 city-owned plots in the Seventh ward district will be leased out, free of charge, to local people to plant gardens this coming spring.

Frank Nugent, superintendent of the city disposal plant, has full charge of the garden plots and makes the agreements with those desiring plots for use during the summer.

There are 68 plots at the disposal plant and the other 40 are located at the end of West Clayton street.

Some of the finest gardens in the district are made each year on these city-owned plots.

A lease is signed by each person desiring to use one of the gardens, and among the things provided in the lease is a promise to clear the land and leave it as it was found at the beginning of the season. Anyone who fails to live up to the lease, will be refused the use of the ground in future seasons.

FAIL TO LOCATE
POCKETBOOK OWNER

Police have failed to locate the owner of a pocketbook found by a group of boys near the railroad tracks along the Shenango river earlier this week.

The pocketbook was turned over to the Seventh Ward firemen who in turn notified city police.

BELL ROPE BROKEN

If you have missed the familiar sound of the fire bell at the Seventh Ward fire house, it is because the bell is out of commission. The firemen are waiting for a bit of warm weather to climb up to the bell tower to replace the rope that is broken.

Hints Surprises Due With Regard To Greece And Turkey

(International News Service)
BERLIN, March 6.—Germany will "choose its own time and method to dispose of Greece," authoritative quarters in Berlin declared today.

These same sources also indicated belief that developments in Athens "may yet produce some surprises."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Greece yesterday confirmed that it would stand beside Britain, even if Hellenic territory is invaded by German troops. Athens announced that complete agreement has been reached with Britain regarding expected developments in the war-threatened Balkans.)

Authoritative German circles indicated satisfaction with the situation both as regards Athens and Ankara.

They declared they would not be astonished if the Turks remain silent and neutral—and inactive—no matter what happens to Greece.

German sources also predicted that the Greek government may prove less inclined to listen to British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's offers than to find a way to end the Greco-Italian conflict in the near future.

Three Perish In Apartment House;
Probe For Fumes

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 6.—Three persons perished and three others were found unconscious today in an apartment building in the Bronx. Police sought to determine whether some type of gas, possibly escaping coal gas, was responsible.

The three dead were reported to be members of a family named Geller who lived on the second floor of the building. The visitors were said to be the mother, a son and a daughter, the latter two in their teens.

A small boy and a middle-aged man and woman were found unconscious on the top floor of the building. Police emergency squads were working over the three unconscious people in an attempt to revive them.

Messenger Boy Sings Ditty To Senator Lucas

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 6.—Sen. Lucas (D., Ill., supporter of the lease-lend bill, today probably had a little ditty ringing in his ears, urging him to vote against the bill.

Arriving at a radio station last night to make an address favoring the measure, he was cornered by a messenger boy who sang this telegram, from the war referendum council in Chicago, to the tune of "Yankee Doodle":

"When Illinois elected you, you promised to be true sir;
"You said you wouldn't vote for war and we believed in you sir.
"So please don't vote for any bill like 1766 sir;
"For if you do we'll be in war, and you'll be in a fix sir.
"We'll give millions for defense, and then some millions more, sir;
"But not one boy and not one cent for any foreign war, sir.

Tax Not Slowing 'Baby Bond' Sale

Public Calls For Them Despite Income Tax, Records Show

FEBRUARY SALES
TOTALED $59,606

New Castle buyers of United States Savings bonds—"baby bonds"—are still buying even though Uncle Sam has made them subject to income taxes, post office officials declared today.

February, normally a month of few sales, saw 183 of the baby securities sold here for a total of $59,606.25, as compared with 129 for a total of $27,656.25 in February a year ago. Like in past months the greatest demand in February was for the $100 issues while the $1,000 denominations ranked next in popularity.

The federal income tax is applicable to all bonds bought after March 1, but records show that for three business days since then a total of $412.50 worth have been purchased.

The public knows that, in most cases, the bonds are held to maturity—and income tax payment on them will not be required until the year they mature.

January has always been the "rush month" for bond sales here. Guy S. Aubel, in charge of the bond sales, reported. The January of this year, however, fell short of the 1939 January when 200 bonds for a total of $84,506.25 were sold. That set an all-time high. This January 166 sales totaled $52,912.50.

Aubel answered "no" when asked if he believed the removal of the income tax exemption on the small bonds would affect their popularity.

"They did rush to get them last month, but they'll keep on buying just the same," he said.

The present size of United States paper currency is six and one-eighth by two and five-eighths inches. The size of the currency used to be seven and seven-tenths by three and one-eighth inches. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon authorized the present size on May 26, 1927.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and cause more trouble. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give heavy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Seven Colleges To Be Represented

Music Festival Arranged At Grove City College
For Saturday

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, March 6.—Forty representatives from seven colleges in the Tri-State district will be guests of Grove City College Saturday, to compete in a music festival sponsored by the Association of Liberal Arts Colleges of Western Pennsylvania. The event is expected to become an annual feature of the association, which includes in its membership Westminster, Geneva, Pennsylvania College for Women, Seton Hill, Mt. Mercy, Bethany, Waynesburg, Allegheny and Grove City.

W. L. Multer, of the Grove City music faculty, is general chairman for the first festival, which opens at 9 a. m. and continues through the day and evening. The evening concert will feature vocal and instrumental solos. Classes in voice, organ, piano and violin will participate. Delegations will be guests of Grove City College at a luncheon, and a dinner will be held at the Penn Grove Hotel in the evening, when Dr. E. H. Kase of the faculty will preside.

Besides students, the presidents, and trustees of all member colleges have been invited, as well as music supervisors of district high schools.

FLIES TO BALTIMORE

Francis Huston, who is employed at the Glen L. Martin airplane factory, near Baltimore, made his first trip over the mountains Saturday afternoon in his Waco bi-plane. The plane has been at a hangar at the Conway airport, and as weather conditions were good, he decided to fly back to Baltimore, following a brief visit here in Little Beaver township.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Huston and has been employed at the G. L. Martin factory for the past two years. The trip to Baltimore was made in two hours, and he was accompanied on the trip by a friend.

COMUNITY PARTY
About 50 neighbors enjoyed a community party last Friday evening in the home of Floyd and Amy Young, in Little Beaver township. Hours were spent informally and everybody had a good time.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY
A social event of interest to a wide circle of friends was the celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John S. McCready in their Big Beaver township home Saturday evening. An enjoyable time was had by the 150 friends, relatives, and neighbors.

Their uncle, Rev. David T. McCalmont of New Wilmington, who married the couple on March 1, 1916, in the parsonage of the Rocky Spring United Presbyterian church where he was pastor at that time, was present for the affair and made the presentation speech when a chest of silverware and a number of other gifts were given to the McCreadys. The date March 1, is somewhat of a family day as far as anniversaries go, as this year their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bright celebrate their first wedding anniversary. March 1, is also the birthday of both Mr. McCready and Mr. Bright. Late in the evening, delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge of the event. The McCready family will be remembered as the winner in the typical farm family contest conducted by the Rural New Yorker last fall, and in October they were guests for one week of the World's Fair at New York City.

FARMERS INSTITUTE
The Farmers Institute will be held in the Big Beaver Grange Hall, Wednesday evening, March 12, at which time a good program will be presented of interest to the farm family. Speakers will come from Pennsylvania State College.

GRANGE MEETING
A St. Patrick's Day program will be presented at the next regular meeting of the Big Beaver Grange, Tuesday evening, March 11. At the last meeting on February 25 a special program was presented honoring nine members who received the silver star certificates as being members of the grange for 25 years. Mrs. Eli Wiggins, Lawrence County Pomona Lecturer, made the presentation speech. A social time followed the meeting and delicious refreshments were served. The young people are rehearsing a three act play which they will present in the early spring.

DAILY DOZEN
(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Ten causes of death struck new lows during 1940. Most important reduction was in the field of pneumonia.

The pneumonia death rate in 1940 was half the rate prior to 1937. Highly effective serums and new drugs reduce pneumonia deaths. In a few years pneumonia may be a minor cause of death. Appendicitis and tuberculosis continue their downward trend. Measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough and diphtheria decline. Diarrhea and enteritis are among the dwindling diseases. Death due to childbirth showed a new low last year. There were fewer homicides than in any previous year. Chronic diseases of middle and later life showed an increase. Medical practice of the future will deal more with the aged.

In olden times, when the last day of the old year came upon the Sabbath, it was called "Long Sunday". Worship and prayer lasted until midnight at which hour the watch meeting was dismissed.

SENIOR CLASS MEETS

A meeting of the Senior class was held in which annuals were discussed. The question was whether to have the class Will, Knockers, etc. in the annual, or whether to leave out these extra light pages and invest the money in a hard cover for the annual. At a later meeting it was decided to adopt the latter idea and to have the annual red trimmed in white, as these are the class colors.

A Senior party is scheduled for March 7, with the following committees:

Social Committee: Ruth M. Long, Alberta Henderson, Lewis Kiser, Richard Donley, Henrietta Sovesky. Program Committee: Tom O'Neill, Sara Wellhausen, Guy Christie, Caroline Bruno, Larry Weaver.

Invitation Committee: Georgia McFerry, Bob Denny, Jack Montgomery, Hilda Lahtinen, Mary Darwin.

Clean-up Committee: Earl Covert, Don Kerr, Josephine Stoga, Rose Di Diano, John Tanner.

Elected By Seniors

Better Attendance
Mr. Cannan, of the Faculty, believes that the attendance has been better this semester than last. At Shen-Hi there is a system of exemption from all semester tests. If a student can make a grade of "C" or better for the whole semester, it is not necessary for him to take examinations, providing that he has no illegal excuses. Just this semester another provision has been added, namely: a person must not be absent for more than 5 days during the whole semester. Perhaps the marked improvement in attendance can be attributed to this new rule.

French Club

The second year French Club held their meeting on Monday, February 17 John Roman, the President, brought the meeting to order. After a few preliminaries the meeting was turned over to the program chairman. Those taking part were Elsie Shaffer and Jack Stewart, Miss Barker, Latin Instructor, then asked the students a number of questions in French. No definite date was decided for the next meeting.

George Dickey With White Sox, Is Also Catcher

Brother Of Famous Bill Dickey Of Yankee Fame, Hopes To Stick In Big Show

WAS UP ONCE IN MAJOR LOOP

By PAUL ALLERUP
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, March 6.—They look alike, play the same position, have the same mannerisms and the same love for baseball, and unless reports reaching Chicago today from the Chicago White Sox training quarters are all wrong, the Brothers Dickey soon will be equally famous.

The Brothers Dickey are, of course, Bill and George. All baseball men know about Bill, who for some years has been busting American League fences for the New York Yankees. Fewer baseball people know about George, Bill's kid brother, but White Sox fans are hopeful he'll soon be as widely acclaimed as the Yankee star.

Had Previous Chance. George, like Bill, is a catcher, and the similarity in their careers doesn't end there. Although George is only 25, eight years younger than Bill, three inches taller and a little heavier, he might pass for a carbon copy of his Yankee kin. Their facial resemblance is startling. Both throw right-handed and bat left-handed.

But—of course there are "buts" in any story comparing a rookie to Bill Dickey—George has yet to prove himself a major leaguer. He is back for his second real major league try with the Sox. He was with the Boston Red Sox briefly in 1936, but since then has toured the minors, playing with Milwaukee, Little Rock, Minneapolis, Portland, and Oklahoma City.

George's trouble has been his hitting. Unlike Brother Bill, he didn't bust any fences. But with Oklahoma City last year, then managed by Rogers Hornsby, George altered his batting technique and, with the aid of the Rajah, boosted his swat total 50 points to close the season with a .315 average. Hornsby is among those who believe George Dickey is going places this time.

Tough Old Grid. With the Sox, young Dickey will have a tough time winning the first string catching spot, for to do so he'd have to nudge out Mike Tresh, one of the most competent backstops in the league. However, in training with the Pale Hose out in Pasadena, the youngster, according to all reports, has impressed Manager Jimmy Dykes with his possibilities, and it is almost certain he will be retained for the season. The Sox plan to carry three catchers during the grid, leaving plenty of room for George.

A year with Chicago, under the guidance of the cage Dykes, might be just what young Dickey needs to start climbing up toward the niche occupied by his brother Bill. At any rate, the word is out among Sox fans that George Dickey is a comer.

Newsom And Giebell Believe Tigers Will Repeat Pennant Win

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

LAKELAND, Fla., March 6.—All this talk about the Detroit Tigers having lucked their way to the American league pennant last season and being too old to repeat this year is strictly a lot of apple strudel, according to a pair of Tiger roommates, who were the big pitching headlines in their circuit last season.

One is big and broad and dark and slow-talking with a South Carolina drawl. That would be Louis Norman "Bo-Bo" Newsom, highest-paid pitcher in the history of baseball, according to officials of his club. The other is Floyd Giebell, tall, lank, light-haired rookie, who shut out the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 0, to clinch the Tigers' place in the world series.

Newsom Reaches Camp. Weighing 212 pounds stripped, ol' Bo-Bo pulled into the Tiger camp here Tuesday and got in his first workout, with the result that he immediately was prepared to announce as follows:

"I won't say how many games I'll win next season, but I reckon I'll do just as good as I did last year or maybe better. I'm in great shape right now. All I have to do is take off 10 pounds or so and that will come billing out in no time. No, I don't want to go out flat-footed as picking the Tigers to win the pennant, but we will be just as good and that was good enough last season."

Ol' Bo-Bo won himself 21 games and lost only five for the Tigers in leading the way to last season's pennant, and he then won two in the world series against the Cincinnati Reds, and missed making it three wins in the clinching seventh game by a margin so slim that it was a heart-breaker to lose.

Epworth Defeats First-Half Champs

Score 36 To 31 Victory Over St. George Greek Team, St. Marys Trims Methodists

The Epworth church basketball team got "hot" last night and defeated the first-half champions, St. George Greeks in a torrid engagement in the Church league at the "Y." 36 to 31. At the half the Epworths led 17 to 14. Elmer "Zeke" Wainio, the veteran of the Epworth team, has a good night, turning in a fine offensive performance with 18 points.

The entire Greek team played a fine brand of basketball, with the scoring about evenly divided. The Greeks are battling hard for the second-half championship and have a good chance to win it.

In the second game, the flashy St. Marys team defeated the First Methodist team 39 to 27, with Pete Carey, Claude, Tommy Donovan and Gilroy the standout stars. Best for the losers was Headland. In the last game the First Presbyterians, led by Tommy McCormick and Strausbaugh, defeated the Croton boys, 40 to 26. Schetrom was best for the losers.

Referee—Sid Lockley.

"I was a little broke up in that series," Ol' Bo-Bo explained, due to the death of his father in a Cincinnati hotel in the midst of Newsom's greatest baseball triumphs.

Bonquets For Giebell. Still he did a little better than all right, as he admitted before switching over to some applause for young Giebell, whose home is at Weirton, W. Va., and who was pulled in from Buffalo by the Tigers in September in time to win two games, including the shutout against Bob Feller which gave the Tigers the pennant.

"Giebell will go," Newsom said. "Why, this fellow is cold as ice water out there on the mound. He has perfect control, a deceiving delivery, and he knows what he is doing."

Giebell elaborated on the foregoing to the extent of expressing his confidence in his ability to pitch and win in the majors. And to say that as far as he could figure out the Tigers should come through again.

Not Eligible. I won 15 for Buffalo before the Tigers called me in," he said. "Then I won two for them. I wasn't eligible for the world series, but Manager Bill McKenchie of the Reds was nice about letting me sit on the Tiger bench and pitch batting practice. That was a thrill for me. Sure I have all the confidence in the world that I will go all right. I've got a pretty fair slider and perfect control. That should get me by. Anyhow, it did in that tough game against Bob Feller, when the chips were down."

"He'll go all right," Newsom said. "Don't worry about that. And I expect to go all right, too. We'll win some games."

Newsom has taken such a shine to Giebell that he personally arranged to room with the rookie.

Franklin High Is After Title

Will Play Washington High Friday Afternoon At Washington Floor At 3:30 O'Clock

Franklin Junior high basketball team is after the 1941 junior high city championship in basketball—Friday afternoon at the George Washington high floor at 3:30 o'clock. The East Siders and North Hillers tangle.

If Franklin wins the game they are the junior high champs, if they lose to the Euclid Avenueans, the championship race will be tied between the Franklins and Washington. Franklin won the game played at the Cunningham avenue floor earlier in the season.

Both coaches, Wallace of Franklin, and Carroll of Washington, are confident of victory in this important battle tomorrow.

Sets World Record

Sport Niblets: Regret to report that William "Bill" Chip, Navy's heady signal barker, is still nursing a shoulder injury sustained during the 1940 grid semester. An unusually talented milt singer, the local athlete has been forced to curtail boxing as a result of the ailment. The injury is not believed to be of a serious nature, according to reports reaching this desk.

John "Ragsy" Gennock, as classy as they come in any basketball league, has been relegated to bench duty due to a knee injury. Gennock was hurt in a recent clash and received treatment in the New Castle hospital. The ex-New Castle High slicker will have to forsake his favorite sport until the next hoop session rolls around, according to Walter Perch.

Sharon and Farrell reportedly have applied for admittance to the WPIAL. If the two Mercer county teams are accepted, western Pennsylvania scholastic circles will benefit tremendously. Sharon and Farrell will be vying with New Castle, Ellwood City, Ambler, Aliquippa, New Brighton and other bigwigs. While the Mercer clubs have met WPIAL foes in past years, nothing was ever at stake, thus removing some of the lustre from the tiffs.

If "Bobo" Newsom, Detroit's crack flinger, succeeds in winning 25 games this season, he reportedly will receive a $40,000 contract in 1942. Freddie Sinton, Louisville's chi power hitter, has retired from baseball to devote his attention to an automobile agency in Decatur.

Al Blozis, of Georgetown, breaks the world shot-put record as he wins the event at the ICA games in New York. The speedy catches him in the act of heaving the heavy shot 56 feet 6 inches, bettering his own indoor record of 55 feet 8 1/2 inches. (Central Press)

Tourney Plans All Completed

Everything In Readiness For Opening Of Fourth Annual City-County Tourney Monday

All details have been overlooked in making preparations for what will probably be the biggest and best tourney held to date. There are 29 teams eager for the opening of the classic.

There was a rather fine advance sale of tickets. The New Castle Music council will derive all of the benefits of the tourney this year. The first game next Monday night will have the Wabash Bears battling the Mt. Jackson quintet, the committee announced today. It was necessary to change the games in class B around due to working conditions. The Rens and Shamrocks will play the final game at 9 o'clock, with the Fannins and Ex-High Stars in a class A division battle at 8 o'clock.

Forty Players In Pirates-Bees Game

Some 270 players figured in National league games last year. On May 6, during the Boston-Pittsburgh game, the box score showed 24 Pirates and 16 Bees had participated in the clash.

HOUSE LEAGUE GAME.

The House league game at the "Y" Friday night will find the Celtics and Globetrotters tangling at 7 o'clock, it was announced today.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Ga. Sington's retirement is a surprise since he was slated to go places in the big top.

Joe DiMaggio's favorite foreign field is Sportsman's Park in St. Louis. Since reaching the majors five years ago, DiMag has clubbed 25 homers in the Missouri orchard. Jimmy Fox, incidentally, has surpassed Lou Gehrig's home run production and now ranks second to "Babe" Ruth. Double-X has amassed 500 base cleaners to "Babe" Gehrig's 494 mark. In the past five seasons, "Hank" Greenberg has poked out 125 homers in his home park at Detroit.

Charlie Berry, the ex-Grove City college coach and a former major league catcher, has resigned as manager of Wilmington of the Interstate league to become an umpire in the Eastern league. Jim Turner ranks as the oldest member of the Cincinnati Reds. The peger was born in 1904. The Cubs plan using Forrest Pressnell, who was recently purchased from the Cincy Reds, for relief pitching chores.

A few quickies: Westmin' r college's gym is equipped with the new fan-shaped basketball backboard. Bowling balls have a core of live rubber put in shape under 30,000 pounds of pressure. Wrestling still is to some of the communities. Jan London's grape in Buffalo a few night ago and attracted 3,000 fans. Nat Holmen, the ex-Oregonian star, is enjoying his 22nd year as basketball coach at College of the City of New York.

Training Methods Big Factor In Titan Record

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 6.—Training methods have played a large part in giving Westminster its greatest Titan cage team of all time, with this year's 1941 edition of the Blue and White courtmen making good in 19 out of 20 starts.

Every practice session, the Titan cagers spend several minutes going over the faults of their last game. Coach Grover Washbaugh encourages the entire squad to "have their say" as to good and bad points of the Titan-play. Washbaugh has developed a keen desire on the part of his players to find out exactly what was wrong with their playing "the night before."

Two days before a game-night, the plays of the coming opponent are set up by second-stringers, to test the starting five's effectiveness in diagnosing them.

Long sessions of "cutting, passing, and shooting" are routine matters in the Blue and White gymnasium; and each evening players must toss fifty supervised shots from the foul-line, to improve their one-point averages. The hour and a half session each evening is usually capped with a 20-minute scrimmage-period.

The "training ritual" on game-days is always the same for the Titan cagers. A training-meal is served at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, consisting always of beef-steak, a vegetable, a baked potato, toast, tea, and ice-cream. For the next three hours before game-time, Coach Washbaugh insists that his players relax and "keep off their feet."

In the dressing-room, just before the game no visitors are allowed. Coach Washbaugh tells his players very little before they go on the floor, since the two previous night-practices have been spent in completely working over opposition plays.

At half-time, Washbaugh makes only a few suggestions about the Titan play, allowing as much of the period as possible to be used as a rest-period. Oranges are always served the Titans at the half-time period.

Titans Certain Of State Title

Westminster's Record Unmatched In Pennsylvania Collegiate Circles

CARNEGIE TECH SATURDAY FOE

Even if Carnegie Tech should trim Westminster college, which would be the biggest upset of the collegiate cage season, the towering Titans are sure of the Pennsylvania mythical championship.

Westminster nailed the hunting by surging from behind to spill game Slippery Rock, 55-53, a few nights back. The victory extended Westminster's streak to nine in a row and gave the locals a 19 out of 20 mark for the season.

Duquesne University, beaten twice this season, won't be able to show as many wins as the Titans even if the Pittsburghers turn back West Virginia, Saturday night.

From past performances, Westminster figures to trip victoryless Carnegie Tech. The Tartans have dropped at least 15 in a row. The game billed for New Wilmington on Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock, promises to lure a capacity crowd.

From past performances, Westminster figures to trip victoryless Carnegie Tech. The Tartans have dropped at least 15 in a row. The game billed for New Wilmington on Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock, promises to lure a capacity crowd.

When the committee in charge of selecting teams to square in the coming Madison Square Garden commences its work, there's an important point in favor of Westminster over its district rival, Duquesne University. The Duquesne five, beaten by Ohio State and DePaul, was handed an 11-point setback by the Buckeyes. Pitt flattened Ohio State by 14 points and Westminster sidetracked Pitt by five points. Which all adds in favor of the Titans.

Westminster ranks as an exceedingly young club, from an age standpoint. There isn't an athlete on the squad who is more than 20 years of age. A surprising number are below that mark.

Frank O'Hara born in Scotland back in 1920, is the midge of the Titan squad. Weighing a mere 123 pounds, the ex-Ford City star makes up for lack of height and weight by aggressiveness, smart playing and deadly shooting.

Throughout the cage world, Westminster ranks tops in sportsmanship. In victory or in defeat, the Titans display a supreme brand of sportsmanship.

Officials delight in working any of the Westminster games, because of the fine brand of sportsmanship exhibited by the Lawrence courtians.

Saxons-Bronze Battle Saturday

The New Castle Saxons basketball team will play the Johnson Bronze five at the senior high floor at 6:30 o'clock on Saturday evening, it was announced today.

The Saints ran up 18 straight in the Y. M. C. A. league and four more in the Y. M. C. A. league and four more in the Y. M. C. A. league.

Joe Cooper leads the scoring brigade with 290 markers. With four more games on the book, First M. E. Croton M. E. St. George and Mahoning M. E. Cooper is sure to pass the 300 mark. St. Vitus has hit the curtains for 1,095 points. Freddy Marcella trails Cooper.

New Wilmington High Floor Team Ends Good Season

Record Shows 18 Wins And Four Defeats For Basketball Season

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 6.—With a 36-34 win over Greenville last Monday, New Wilmington High School's basketball team closed out another successful season, finishing with a mark of 18 wins and 4 defeats for a percentage of .818. The Little Titans wound up second to Wampum in Section XX.

Paced by Jim Pearson, Ken Cathcart, and Paul "Lefty" Minner, the Greyhounds scored 738 points to their opponents' 570, and had an average of 33.5 to 25.9. Pearson led the scorers with 163 points, followed by Cathcart with 142 and Minner with 140. Minner, who missed over half the games because of a wrist injury, was far in the lead in average with a mark of 14 points a game, to Cathcart's 7.49 and Pearson's 7.41.

In the past three years, under the coaching of John Earleson, New Wilmington has won 60 games and dropped 11. Although three regulars—Pearson, Minner, and Dick Bonowicz—are lost to the team, next year's prospects are bright, with several capable substitutes and reserves coming up.

The Akron Goodrich girls team came here to the Arena last night and in a preliminary game defeated the local Factor Variety lasses 29 to 23. The count was tied the first period at 7-7 and at the half the visitors led 17 to 12.

The playing of the entire Factor team was fine, the scoring stars being Ara Feldkamp and Gerry Gail, with 15 of the Factor points. Ann Kaiser and Ruth Russell were the best in the Akron lineup. The girls drew a big round of applause at the end of the game.

Next Sunday the Factor girls will play the Falcon Reserves (boys) at the Falcon hall at 2 o'clock in a preliminary game.

Gersons To Play Washington Five

The Gerson basketball team will play the fast Booker T. Washington colored five at the Arena next Sunday it was announced by Manager Walter Perch.

CHARLESTON, Ill.—Bill Glenn, Eastern State Teachers' college football back who had the best completed pass average in the country last fall, is a member of the basketball and baseball squads.

Soose's Manager Square Shooter, Not Well Liked

Paul Moss Is Not Like Usual Hard-Boiled Fight Manager, Hopes To Get Big Money

NO BIG PURSES HAS BILLY HAD

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 6.—Cautioner row has seen many queer fish in its day but none stranger than Paul Moss who today is trying to pilot Billy Soose into the middle-weight title.

Conservatively dressed, soft spoken and gentlemanly, this college graduate and Hollywood script writer is a puzzle to most old line fight managers whose severest criticism of him is that "he don't know nothing about the angles."

They resent him because the only geometrical figure he deals in is a straight line, because he wants no "divers" for his fighter, and because he refuses to "cut anybody in" for a "piece" of his fighter.

Such conduct is pure heresy to some of them who look on Moss as a Johnny-come-lately interloper while forgetting that the fight business is the only one that anybody may enter without reference, credit or capital.

And what does Moss think of the strange brotherhood in which he now finds himself? "Well," he said today, "it's the greatest business in the world for studying nature in the raw. Up to find what point, everybody in it gets his money the hard way. But after that point has been reached, the money comes easy, too easy in fact."

No Big Purses. "I have been managing Billy Soose for three years and in that time he has had 32 fights but I doubt that his purses would total more than $22,000. His biggest purse was only $4,400. He probably will hit a new top when he meets Eugene Vich in Madison Square Garden Friday."

"I've always heard a lot about the so-called dumb fighters who made fortunes and then lost them. But what about all these so-called smart fight managers I've been hearing about all my life? I have been looking up the record and I find that there are several of them who literally have earned millions of dollars in their day. But I wonder how much of it they have retained?"

"Jack Kearns alone must have earned at least $2,000,000 as his share of the huge purses of Jack Dempsey, Mickey Walker, Jackie Fields and others."

Dan Morgan had gold mines in Jack Britton, King Levinsky, Knockout Brown and other stars. Joe Jacobs died virtually broke although he must have made a huge fortune with five champions, including Max Schmeling, and a host of other fighters.

Some Were Smart. "Sam Goldstein piloted Tony Canzoneri and Pete Herman into titles and probably more than a million in purses. Just think of what Billy Gibson must have made with Gene Tunney, Benny Leonard and others. Johnny Buckley saw the money roll in with Ernie Schaff and Jack Sharkey. Eddie Meade had champions like Joe Lynch and Henry Armstrong. Phil Glassman made a fortune with Lew Tendler and Benny Bass. Lou Gutterer rolled in wealth with Kid Chocolate."

"Some of these managers had hard luck. Investments went bad. Wall St. and the ponies got others. Some literally threw their money away. Others were wise enough to retain something for a rainy day."

"But looking back over the years, I wonder if the so-called smart managers on the

ROUGH MAT BOYS COMING MONDAY TO ARENA RING

Grappling will feature Monday night in this city and one of the best known matmen in the heavy-weight ranks, Jumpin' Joe Savoldi will meet some worthy opponent, probably Bibber McCoy, who like Jumpin' Joe, entered the game of Catch-as-Catch-can after they had left college.

Jumpin' Joe, for a time, was a great grid star at Notre Dame and the Bibber played a stellar grid and diamond role at Holy Cross U. Should they be paired it is likely that wrestling holds, now and then, will give way to football tactics.

It is known that Jumpin' Joe is most famous for his flying tackle which after all is no more than a legalized flying assault. He used it against the late Mike Roman when they wrestled several years ago at Ellwood City and yet uses it effectively.

If the Bibber opposes Savoldi, it will be flying tackle vs. flying tackle because McCoy beat Flying Cowboy Govro with such an assault here a week ago Monday night. McCoy was used somewhat roughly by the Cowboy until Bibber adopted the Cowboy's tactics and when he did, the curtain fell for the Cowboy.

George Macracostas, the Golden Greek, who appears one of the best of the current crop of heavyweight wrestlers may take on "Lord" Albert Mills. The "Lord" has lost two matches here, one to the Angel and the other to the Superman, both names being sobriquets.

Macracostas won with a Suplex hold after he had shut off the circulation of blood flowing through the arteries of Marvin Jones right arm a week ago Monday night. The Golden Greek, so-called because his skin is of golden hue most likely will flop the 76 inch tall Briton.

Injury Sometimes Occurs
There'll be another match to complete the three-bout, Australia rules affair. No doubt the grapplers will commit everything excepting mayhem to obtain a strange hold on fans here and boys who like to have their beef served rare are apt to see plenty of rough stuff in the exhibitions.

For instance we have not yet forgotten the night when a grappler was thrown out of the ring at Centennial field and, in wild rage, we believe at having been bowled over like a ten pin, made a head dive along the ringside section and bowled over spectators.

Most of the wrestlers are former collegians. They are well educated and gentlemen. However, on the mat they sometimes act more like bulldozers in a pit when they come to grips. Their chief stock in capturing the fancy of fans is a lot of fast wrestling interspersed with comedy. Sometimes they are injured.

One of those who appeared in a recent show here sustained a couple of fractured ribs, a report states. It might have been an exhibition but it wasn't to the injured grappler. Several years ago Mike Roman passed away following a bout in Washington.

Taki Maki, the Jap who wrestled in the Jolly bowl years ago gave his opponent's spinal column such a rubbing with the knuckles of his fingers the opponent thought a wash-board was passing up and down his spinal column. It may be a warning to the fans, an exhibition to wrestlers, but most to one not skilled in present day grappling its dangerous.

Ernie Lombardi
Still Holdout
(International News Service)
OAKLAND, Cal., March 6.—Ernie Lombardi, holdout catcher of the Cincinnati Reds, today announced he doesn't expect "to hold out all season," after taking his first workout.

Giving the first evidence of a possible truce with Warren Giles, general manager of the world champions, Lombardi disclosed he received a communication from Giles asking him to report for training.

Ernie hesitated to reply, he said, because there was no offer of more money.

The Red catcher is reported to be asking for more than $18,000.

Rens Score Hit; Top Gerson Five

Colored Champions Electrify
1,250 Fans; Win By 47-31 Count

If you weren't in The Arena on Wednesday night, you missed the most eye-arresting basketball exhibition presented in many a season.

With a gallery of close to 1250 satisfied customers looking on, the New York Renaissance led the spacious hardwood with a 47-31 victory over the Gersons.

The score is really inconsequential in this report, for the fancy exhibition by the sepien giants was really the highlights. The pros made the spheroid do everything but sing. Deceptive passing, comical, slight-of-hand tactics and deadly shooting were part of the evening's show. The "Rens" circus basketball produced many howling laughs.

The slick colored aces moved ahead 17-3 as the initial quarter ended. By half time, the Rens sported a 31-17 margin. In the third, the colored aces forgot all about the basket and stuck strictly to passing and comedy. The Gersons dropped a twin-typer which constituted all the third period scoring.

Billy Conn To Battle Hassett

A crowd of 8,000 is expected, despite a consensus of opinion among fight fans that Hassett will be at the mercy of the former light-heavyweight champion anytime after the seventh round.

Reservations have been made for Joe Louis to watch Conn in action. The two will meet this June.

PENN AND PENN STATE RENEW GRID BATTLES

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—Pennsylvania State college and the University of Pennsylvania will renew football relations in 1942 after a lapse of two years, Penn officials announced.

The game, scheduled for Franklin field on November 14, marks the 39th contest between the schools since the series started in 1890. Pennsylvania State dropped off the Red and Blue schedule in 1939 because of Penn's Ivy-tied Bicentennial hook-up.

H. Libendorfer was high scorer with 22 markers. Beynon, Pitzer, Miller, McCaskey, Fahrenbaugh, Fannin, Campbell, A. Russo and Pagione followed in the high scoring column.

Tex Richards officiated.

HUDSON DOESN'T FEAR SOPH JINX

Washington's talented Sid Hudson isn't afraid of the sophomore jinx that has plagued so many other rookie pitching stars in years gone by.

As a first year man, Hudson turned in an unusually surprising number of sensational slab performances. Sid believes he's ready for the test now that he has more experience and greater knowledge about opposing batters.

SHORT SPORTS

A distinguished group of Notre Dame alumni graced the speakers' table at the 21st annual testimonial dinner to the Fighting Irish football team recently. Included were Dr. Eddie Anderson, Iowa coach; Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin athletic director and coach; Business Manager J. Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs; Ray J. Eichenlaub, former star fullback and now president of the Notre Dame alumni association; the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C., former monogram winner at center, and now president of the university; and Elmer Layden, all-American fullback with the 1924 Four Horsemen, athletic director and head football coach for the Irish.

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame grid mentor, is beating the experts to the draw in 1941. "We had one regular returning for 1940," he says, "so they picked us for the national championship. We'll have four regulars back in 1941, so we're a cinch. Maybe our opponents will just concede the schedule to us."

Notre Dame's total of 986 points set an all-time scoring record, one more than during the 1938-39 season. Opponents scored 775 points. Notre Dame averaged 46.9 points per game; opponents, 36.9.

He started back across the road and is said to have run in front of a car driven by Mr. Douthett, of Zelenople. He was taken to the local hospital where "he is resting well," according to attendants.

WHY STUDENTS FAIL
(International News Service)
WACO, Tex., March 6.—Here's the answer to the father's complaint that he spent $3,000 on his son's education and only got a "quarterback": Dean E. N. Jones of Baylor University said there are three main reasons why students fail in college. They are: lack of sufficient training in high schools, lack of ability and willingness to apply themselves, and difficulty in adjusting themselves to college life.

It wasn't German genius that made Hitler a conqueror. His generals adopted the ideas that smart men in other lands vainly urged upon their superiors.

WHOLESALE SACRIFICE
Entire Used Car Stock
HERE'S WHY
we do it:

Yes, we could sell our stock of fine used cars to a wholesaler for just about what we'll realize out of 'em through this sale to the general public. And we'd save a lot of time—get them off our hands in one transaction. BUT—we wouldn't make the dozens of new friends and future customers that we will be selling to the general public, instead of to a wholesale dealer.

Passenger Liners
Being Converted
Into TransportsReport Of President Of Bethlehem Steel Company Says
Troop Transports Prepared

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 6.—Passenger liners are being converted into troop transports in the ship yards of Bethlehem Steel company. Eugene G. Grace, Corporation President, asserted today in his annual report to employees.

"Bethlehem's 11 ship repair yards, adequately equipped to serve both our fighting and cargo carrying fleets, are important adjuncts to the maintenance of the country's defenses," Grace reported.

"Recently these yards have been active in converting passenger liners to troop transports and in modernizing and reconditioning vessels of our naval and merchant fleets to auxiliaries such as destroyer tenders, seaplane tenders, submarine tenders, oilers and supply ships.

"The most accurate gauge of the importance of Bethlehem's shipbuilding operations is to be found in the ship that contracts for the construction of 73 of the ships to provide a two-ocean navy were awarded to Bethlehem.

"These contracts are in addition to naval work received at an earlier date, and have brought the total of naval vessels under construction or on order in Bethlehem shipyards, to 76."

Road Improvement Effort Of State Is Given Praise

Last Year's Improvement Program Second Largest In History Of State

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—High praise of Pennsylvania's 1940 highway improvements—second largest in the history of the department of highways—was bestowed upon the administration by the Keystone Automobile club.

"It is gratifying to motor vehicle owners, who pay heavily in taxes and fees, to know that the department's program is constantly being expanded, and that the motorist dollar is being put to its proper use," commented J. Maxwell Smith, Keystone president.

Of the 40,522 miles of road in the state system, 8,330 were listed by highways as "unimproved" as of May 31, 1940, a reduction of 1,443 miles over the total of 1939. During the year, the department advertised contracts for road and bridge construction costing $40,000,000, Hughes said.

Eighteen Hollanders Condemned To Die

AMSTERDAM, March 6.—Eighteen Hollanders were condemned to death yesterday by a German court martial in a dramatic espionage and sabotage trial.

The court, which had sat for a week, sentenced 19 others to from one and a half to seven years imprisonment. Six others were set free.

The defendants were charged with being leaders of a group who engaged in acts of sabotage and terrorism against the German army and the army supply service and also did espionage work.

It was rumored that Rudyard Kipling's poem "The Widow at Windsor" kept him from being appointed Poet Laureate of England.

Selfishness Held Danger To Democracy

Penn State Dean Of Education Decries Attitude Of Most People

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 6.—One of the great dangers to American democracy in the present world crisis is the tendency of our people to ask of every proposal, "What will it get me?" Dr. M. R. Trabue, dean of the school of education at the Pennsylvania State college, said.

Somewhat we must change that question to an unselfish one, such as "Will this make us a better nation?" Dean Trabue warned, "Our citizens must learn to act for the common good rather than merely to advance their own interests. Community improvement must be substituted for selfish competition to gain individual recognition."

SHARP EYE NABS CRIMINAL (International News Service)

OAKLAND, Cal.—The sharp eye and keen memory of Oakland Police Inspector Eugene Murphy were credited today with the capture of an ex-convict sought for eight months for the holdup of a drug-store.

Eight months ago victims of the holdup identified a San Quentin photograph of one Ernest Fargas, 31, as the gunman. Inspector Murphy had never seen Fargas, but his camera-memory recorded the face. The other day he spotted Fargas on a downtown street and arrested him. Fargas confessed the holdup.
